

Join us for a Webinar: Effective Partnerships for Social Change

In June 2023, partners of the Sustainable Development Goals Partnership (SDGP) facility of RVO gathered to share their experiences and write their stories about engaging in Public Private Partnerships (PPPs).

Their aim was to learn together to improve future practice and to offer helpful insights to the wider world. The writing workshop was facilitated by The Partnership Brokers Association and The Barefoot Guide Connection

This "Collaborative Learning Writeshop" bore fruit in the form of an anthology of eleven compelling stories, each of them a testament to the trials, triumphs, and untapped potential inherent in PPPs. Accompanying the stories are an analysis and insights, all of which capture the essence of our collective pursuit: to find ways to work together that make a difference.

This webinar, based on this anthology of stories of partnering practice, invites you into the conversation to learn and to offer your experience and insights to our pursuit.

The key questions we will explore:

- Do you recognize the writer's experiences? How does this relate to your practice?
- What do we need to unlearn to enable more successful PPPs, particularly around entrenched power structures that play out in our everyday partnering processes?

What can participants expect, contribute and take away?

The webinar is not a passive exchange. It is an interactive forum for sharing, co-creating, and challenging. Through listening to some stories of the writers and facilitated conversations, we aspire not only to gain insights but to equip each participant with tangible strategies to elevate their partnering practices.

Donors can expect to exchange with practitioners and learn from other donors about shaping partnering facilities that enable equitable ways of working for collective impact.

Partnership practitioners can expect to share insights and experiences and learn from tangible examples and partnering strategies from others.

Social change practitioners can expect to learn about how and under which conditions PPPs can help change the status quo.

Students can expect to offer insights about how these stories relate to what they have learned so far and inspire them to think about what will they do differently once they start working.

This webinar promises to be a convergence of minds, hearts, and experiences. Join us as we explore the path of partnering for social change forward, one story at a time.
